AMERICAN CRAFT BEER

We hope that you enjoy delving into this beer list. It is entirely North American. We believe that Americans are doing the most dynamic brewing in the world today, both by intensely following tradition and wildly deviating from it. You find brews from $5 to upwards of $40, easily rivaling fine wines. Needless to say, we've put countless, grueling, thankless hours into tasting these beers. See the glossary at the end of the menu. Do note the alcohol by volume content (abv) which varies dramatically. Some of the categories below are our own.

BEER FLIGHTS Any draft beer may be chosen, and any bottle may be chosen so long as you select 2 glasses of the bottled beer. For example, if you order one 5 flight (5 glasses), you might select 1 bottled beer (2 glasses), and 3 draft beers (3 glasses). Each glass holds 6 ounces. Prices listed below are for "regular beers" which are draft or bottled beers priced at $5 or less. Mostly modest additional charges will apply for beers in higher price ranges. Larger bottles are also available; however, you must select 4 glasses of that beer. Admittedly, this scheme is a bit complicated, but we wanted to make the entire inventory available for beer flights. (And what here isn't complicated?)

Flight of 3 Regular Beers	$8.00
Flight of 5 Regular Beers	$12.50

PALE LAGER The world's most popular style (Bud, Heineken). Very clean with little malt or hops character.

Point Special Lager (Wisconsin). Your author's college beer, but a nice example of the style. Deep golden, medium body. Pleasant, clean flavors of grain and a touch of honey on the finish. 5.1% abv {87% 2.5 3.4} 4.50

Abita Light (Louisiana) 4.50

PREMIUM LAGER Typically a cross between a pale lager and a pilsner, with a little more assertive malt and hop character but with softer carbonation than a pilsner.

Metropolitan Flywheel (Chicago). Hazy, pale gold with creamy white head. Light body, creamy, soft carbonation, with good balance and finish. Delicate, moderately complex, flavors of flowers, bread, grain, and a light touch of honey. 5.0% abv {87% 3.1 4.5} 5.00

DORTMUND/ELLES LAGER Smooth and easy drinkers emphasizing the malt, typically with bready flavors.

Great Lakes Dortmunder Gold (Ohio). Copper colored, with grain flavors and a touch of honey adding to a dry, clean finish. 5.8% abv {99% 3.6 3.4} 5.00

PILSNER LAGER Pale and crisp, emphasizing hops. (See also Kölsch ale.)

Bell's Beer Pilsner (Michigan). Straw with creamy white head. Light to medium body, some creaminess, with good, bitter finish. Flavors of grain, toast, lemon, and honey. 4.5% abv {87% 3.1 4.0} 5.25

Capital Special Pilsner (Wisconsin). Gold with creamy white head. Medium, creamy body with good finish. Flavors of grain, clover honey, and orange, with sweet finish. 4.8% abv {84% 3.0 3.9} 5.00

Lagunitas Pils (California). Golden with white foamy head. Fat on the tongue with low hopping. Clean, smooth flavors of honey and straw. 5.1% abv {91% 3.3 3.5} 5.00

Victory Prima Pils (Pennsylvania). Cloudy gold, medium body, with smooth, slightly sweet, forward honey flavors and dry grain finish. 5.3% abv {99% 3.6 4.0} 5.00

VIENNA LAGER (MARZEN/OKTOBERFEST) Amber to copper color, with a little sweetness and caramel flavor distinguishing this style from other lagers. Oktoberfest beers are in this group.

Brooklyn Lager (New York). Amber with foamy tan head. Light to medium body with good hops and finish. Flavors of malt and caramel with floral undertones and sweet, burnt sugar finish. 5.0% abv {96% 3.4 4.0} 5.00

Great Lakes Elliot Ness (Ohio). Amber, creamy tan head. Medium, creamy hop body, lively spritz and fine, sweet finish. Flavors of malt and caramel with cotton-candy sugar and pine finish. 6.2% abv {100% 3.6 4.4} 5.00

Half Acre (Chicago). Copper. Light body, with soft, spritzzy carbonation and tasty, moderate hopping in the finish. Flavors of orange peel, lemon and burnt sugar. A lager like an India Pale Ale. 5.2% abv {95% 3.3 4.1} 5.00

Metropolitan Dynamo (Chicago). Orange-amber with white head. Medium body, crisp but with moderate sweet malts and some dryness on the good finish. Flavors of toasted grain, bread, and burnt sugar. 5.6% abv {93% 3.4 3.9} 5.00

Riverfront Riverwest Stein Beer (Wisconsin). Cloudy copper color, creamy off-white head. Medium body with balanced malt and creamy hops. Flavors of malt, pine, and candied caramel. 6.0% abv {99% 3.5 3.9} 5.00

BOCK (LAGER) Medium to full bodied, darker in color, with emphasis on malty sweetness and typically with minimal hoppiness.

Capital Blonde Doppelbock (Wisconsin) Golden amber with creamy off-white head. Full-bodied, syrupy, with rich, sweet malts with no discernable hops and good, long finish. Dessert wine flavors of oranges, hazelnuts, violets, caramel, and honey. 8.0% abv {65% 3.5 4.3} $6.00

Rogue Dead Guy Ale (Oregon). An ale in this category - cheating? Cloudy amber with creamy head. Medium body with flavors of raspberries, grapes, burnt sugar. Sweet malt finish. 6.2% abv {94% 3.5 4.4} 5.25

Sam Adams Chocolate Bock (Massachusetts). Clear black with creamy tan head. Medium body, very creamy, not so sweet with good balance and long finish. Flavors of milk chocolate, roast barley, nuts, prunes, dates, and vanilla. 5.5% abv {93% 3.5 4.2} 25.00 /750

DUNKEL & BLACK LAGER Dark, from brown (dunkel) to black (schwarz). Similar to a porter.

Sprecher Black Bavarian (Wisconsin). Black with foamy brown head. Light to medium body, lively carbonation, with flavors of molasses, chocolate, and roast coffee. 5.9% abv {100% 3.7 3.7} 5.50

KÖLSCH ALE Fermented at colder temperatures than most ales, can resemble a pilsner with typically a little less dryness in the finish.

New Holland Full Circle (Michigan). Dark gold with white head. Medium body with spritzzy carbonation. Round, clean pilsner-like flavors of honey, grain, lemon, and flowers, with sweet finish. 5.8% abv {75% 3.1 3.6} 5.00

CALIFORNIA COMMON A unique American expression where, lacking refrigeration in the 1800's, brewers crossed lager yeasts with warm ale fermentation, producing rounded beers with some fruit and hoppiness.

Anchor Steam Copper with big, foamy head. Light to medium body, with bright candied spun sugar flavors and undertones of grape and pine which carry through to finish. 4.9% abv {80% 3.3 4.4}.....5.00

ENGLISH PALE ALE Golden-copper colored, with more malt than India and American pale ales (e.g., Bass Ale).

COMMENTS

- 1. Ales & Lagers. In modern usage, ale refers to brews that undergo warm fermentation, with the yeasts rising to the top. This top fermentation typically produces complex, fruity flavors. All ales are beers, but not all beers are ales. In contrast to ales, lagers are slower, cold fermented, with the yeasts remaining at the bottom. Bottom fermentation tends to produce elegant, smooth beers without the more complex, fruity character of ales. The big brews - Bud, Miller, Heineken, etc. are lagers, usually of the pilsner type. (Our lagers, above, are much more interesting, though.) And from Lagunitas Brewing: "Where an ale might hit you over the head and take your wallet, lagers donate to charity and adopt stray cats. While an ale might steal your car or try to date your daughter and keep her out all night for who-knows-what purpose, a well bred lager would offer to clean your house while you're on vacation and leave fresh scones and coffee for you when you return. Now, don't get us wrong, ales can be a lot of fun to hang out with when you're in the right mood, and if you have bail money on you. But what's wrong with livin' uptown from time to time, on a nice street, where the doormen all wear those little uniforms, the air smells of flowers, and lagers rule the Earth." (Of course, the wise guys from Lagunitas make mostly ales.) Porters & Stouts are very dark, top fermented brews, with the color coming from the almost-burnt roast of the malts and barleys. In this country, porters are lighter of body than stouts.
- 2. Ratings. For the truly beer addled, we present a series of numbers at the end of each beer description. The first number is ratebeer.com's percentile ranking of that beer to all the beers of that style. The second number is ratebeer.com's numerical ranking of that beer to all beers of every style, on a scale of 5.0. While it is fun to compare your tastings with these numbers, we urge you to take them with a great grain of salt. They are averages of the ratings of all the voting members of the web sites. They do not take into account the variability of a brew from year to year or any improvement or decline of a brew over time and, in our opinion, they reflect a bias among beer drinkers towards heavy, potent brews (like stouts) against lighter brews. Finally, the last number is our own rating of the beer against all beers of that specific style, on a scale of 5.0. If you would like to speak to your beer menu author, and possibly subject him to a good tongue-lashing, do ask if Mark is in. If not, we have a number of people who think that they are beer "experts" on staff that would be happy to chat with you.
- 3. Thanks. We would like to acknowledge a debt of gratitude for being able to consult and steal from ratebeer.com, beeradvocate.com, and from the late Michael Jackson's various great beer books, especially "The Beer Companion".
